Families and the Macroeconomy

Organizers: Matthias Doepke (Northwestern University) and Michèle Tertilt (University of Mannheim)

Dates: June 22-23, 2015

Edesheim (Pfalz), Germany

This workshop will bring together micro and macro economists working on the economics of the family. We are particularly interested in the development implications of the interactions of family members. However, other submissions are equally welcome. We welcome both theoretical and empirical contributions on the subject. We are also interested in field experiments.

The deadline for submissions is January 31, 2015.
